A UNICOR Cartridge Q&A

1. How does using a remanufactured cartridge affect my printer's warranty?

It doesn't affect it at all. It is a violation of Federal law to void a warranty for using a properly remanufactured toner cartridge.

2. Will a recycled cartridge damage my printer?

Absolutely not! A properly remanufactured cartridge from UNICOR meets or exceeds the performance of original equipment.

3. Wouldn't used cartridges be inferior to new ones?

You should find no difference in the print quality of a UNICOR cartridge. We use only graphics-quality toner and first-rate replacement parts, and we guarantee they will perform as well as new cartridges.

4. How does recycling toner cartridges help the environment?

Recycling toner cartridges reduces the amount of non-biodegradable plastic in landfills. Additionally, the manufacturing process used to create new cartridges depends heavily on fossil fuels, imported fossil fuels. That's why the EPA has mandated the use of remanufactured cartridges for all Federal agencies.

5. Can I really save money by using remanufactured cartridges?

Definitely. Depending on the quantity of cartridges your agency uses, your savings can amount to thousands of dollars per year. That's a lot of money for your agency in these times of limited resources.

6. Is there a down side to using remanufactured toner cartridges?

Not at all! Using UNICOR remanufactured toner cartridges saves your agency money, helps preserve the environment and provides a high quality product, all while observing EPA guidelines. What else could be better?
